Some Statistics

- 223 women joined the ATA during 1939-1944. 168 of them passed the initial training course and were allocated ‘W.’ numbers, signifying that they could ferry RAF and FAA aircraft.
- The number of women pilots peaked in 1944, at 136 (119 operational and 17 under training)
- The average age on starting with the ATA was 27.5 years, ranging from the youngest (Jackie Sorour) who was 20 years and 5 months, to the oldest (Grace Brown) who was over 43
- 2 women (Lois Butler and Faith Bennett) continued flying when they were over 45, but the average age at which the women completed their ATA service was 30.1
- 4 women - Patricia Provis, Rhoda Heppell, Joy Gough and Joan Cunnington - were only 22 when they completed their ATA Service

ATA Aircraft Classes

All operational ATA ferry pilots progressed to more demanding aircraft as their abilities allowed. The aircraft which they were entitled to fly were determined by the highest 'Class' for which they had qualified.

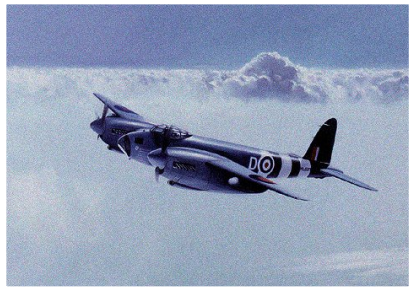

Class I: Light single-engine aeroplanes (e.g. Tiger Moth, Magister)

Class II: Advanced single-engine aeroplanes / single-engine fighters (e.g. Spitfire, Hurricane)

Class III: Light twin-engine aircraft (e.g. Oxford, Anson)

Class IV: Advanced twin-engine aircraft / multi-engine operational types (e.g. Mosquito, Wellington)

Class V: Four-engine heavy bombers (e.g. Halifax, Lancaster)

Only 11 women were qualified to fly Class V aircraft.

Class VI: Flying boats and floatplanes (e.g. Sunderland, Catalina)

No women were qualified to fly Class VI aircraft.

Elsie Davison 	8 Jul 1940 when a passenger in Master N7539. Spiral dive on approach to Upavon
Amy Johnson 	5 Jan 1941 after bailing out into the Thames Estuary from Airspeed Oxford V3540
Bridget Hill,  Betty Sayer 	15 Mar 1942, when flying as passengers in Fairchild Argus HM178, which stalled and crashed when returning to land at White Waltham after bad weather
Joan Marshall 	20 Jun 1942, in Master I N7806 which spun into the ground when approaching to land at White Waltham
Irene Arckless 	3 Jan 1943, her Oxford V3888 crashed onto a house on the outskirts of Cambridge when an engine cut during take-off
Honor Salmon 	19 April 1943, she flew on in bad weather instead of turning back. Her Airspeed Oxford MN765 hit high ground near Devizes
Mary Nicholson (USA) 	22 May 1943, her Miles Master W9029 crashed at Littleworth, near Worcester. According to an eye-witness, the airscrew came away from the aircraft before it crashed and burst into flames
Jane Winstone (NZ) 	10 Feb 1944 as she took off in Spitfire IX MK616 from Cosford. The engine failed and the aircraft stalled and spun into the ground 2 miles north of the airfield
Dora Lang,  Janice Harrington 	2 Mar 1944, in Mosquito VI HP932. Whilst approaching to land the aircraft appeared to undershoot slightly, the throttles were opened gently and then fully, whereupon the aircraft climbed sharply, stalled, crashed and was destroyed.
Taniya Whitall 	passenger in Lancaster I R5672 which crashed near Caistor on 8 Apr 1944
